Bent Creek News

Bent Creek, August 12.- Talk of day is hot weather. If it doesn't rain soon the crops will be a failure. The writer insists that the One who sends the sunshine knows when to send the showers.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Marks, of Lynchburg, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ransone and Miss Lucy Marks and two children were visitors in the Marks home Saturday night.

The many friends of Mrs. E. H. Smith were glad to know she was back at her home, River Bluff, last week. Mr. Wayne Harris' wife and child and brother motored from Richmond Sun, and brought Mrs. Smith back. Mrs. Smith is Mrs. Wayne Harris' mother. She has promised to return in the near future and finish out her visit here.

Mrs. C. W. Phelps, who had such a severe fall here the second week in July, has recovered sufficiently to be visiting her nephew.

G. M. Dixon is near Appomattox and attending the revival at Liberty this week.

Mr. J. L. Litchford, an aged citizen who lives with his daughter, Mrs. L. M. Wright, was taken seriously ill last night. Dr. Watts was hastily summoned and said to take him to the hospital at once, which was done.

Lake Skipper Leaves Bequest to Last Sweetie

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Capt. Elias Andreas a Great Lakes sailor for 37 years, had a sense of humor and a way with women. Of these two characteristics was born a problem which will be placed before a Milwaukee county judge.

After his death on October 24, 1940, it was learned that the captain had written into his will—eight years previously—a provision for a bequest of $500 to "the girl friend or lady with whom I am keeping company just prior to my death." He was 66 years old when he died.

To date, according to Ernest Woolley, executor of the will, and his attorney, Arthur J. Seher, more than a dozen women have identified themselves as "the girl friend or lady" referred to in the captain's will. Moreover, they all have advanced plausible evidence in support of their claims.

Appomattox Wins First Play-off Game In Skyline Series

Hitting effectively with men on bases and fielding brilliantly, the Appomattox baseball team defeated Bedford, 7 to 4, last night at the Lynchburg city stadium, in the first game of the play-os series in the Skyline league. Speck Garbee was the mound for Appomattox.

The second game of the series is to be played Saturday afternoon in Bedford. If a third game in necessary, it will be played here Sunday afternoon.

The winner of the Appomattox-Bedford series will meet the winner of the Buena-Vista, Brookneal series the following week-end for the league championship.

Last Sunday afternoon, Appomattox defeated Farmville, 6 to 2, to take a non-league series.

Softball Games

Soft ball is becoming popular in Appomattox. Several games have been played recently between two teams, repreesenting the Northside and the Southside, with the southside team ahead so far in games, three to two.

PEACHES FOR DENFENSE

With the drive for more food for defense in top gear, and a plentiful crop of luscious Virginia peaches now in harvest, defense and nutrition committees are urging housewives to can peaches.

For defense, a good home supply of canned peaches will save tin, also canneries to supply export needs or release other foods needed by England and her allies.

For nutrition, peaches are especially fine. They contain four vitamins and four minerals. They are a source of vitamin B, fair for vitamin A, and have some vitamin C and G (B-2). They are good sources of phosphorus, potassium, iron and calcium . . . all highly valuable in building bones and protecting teeth.

Helping to feed England and her allies will make a big demand for commercially-canned peaches, it is predicted, with consequent higher prices this coming winter. So home canning should be both economical and patriotic.

Committees Are Named

Eight Appomattox citizens have been named on committees to advise and assist in the operation of the rehabilitation and tenant purchase programs of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Sneed T. Adams Appomattox County supervisor for Farm Security Administration, announced the appointments made by James S. Wills, FSA State Director at Richmond, Virginia.

The members appointed by Mr. Wills are: D. Mosby Harri, farmer, Spout Spring; William Nash, farmer, Appomattox; Clarence F. Moore, farmer, Oakville; J. Burkley Drinkard, farmer, Appomattox; J. Crawford Davidson, banker, Appomattox; Richard L. Burke, banker, Appomattox; Bernard G. Anderson, farmer, Appomattox; and Ruesben B. Hudgins, county agent, Appomattox.

Mr. Adams said that Mr. Harris, Mr. Nash and Mr. Moore will serve as members of the subcommittee on the Tenant Purchase program; Mr. Harris, Mr. Drinkard and Mr. Davidson will serve on the subcommittee for the Farm Debt Adjustment and tenure improvement work; Mr. Harris, Mr. Moore and Mr. Drinkard will serve on the subcommittee for the rural rehabilitation program. Mr. Burke, Mr. Anderson and Mr. Hudgins are members at large to advise on the various phases of assistance to low income farm families.

The Tenant Purchase program provides funds for the purchase of family type farms by qualified tenants under the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Purchase Act. Appomattox County already has seven new farmowners in this program. FSA rehabilitation loans are available to low income farm families, ineligible for credit elsewhere, for the purchase of livestock, workstock, seed, fertilizer and equipment, in accordance with carefully planned operation of the farm and home. About 116 farm families in Appomattox county have already been helped by this program.

Revival meeting closed last night at Liberty Baptist church.

SENATOR TUCK TO SPEAK AT HOLLIDAY TOMORROW

There will be brunswick stew and meeting of the Young Democratic Club of Appomattox County Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at Holliday Lake.

Hon. William M. Tuck, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor of Virginia, will be the principal speaker. Hon. Franklin Daniel, of Lynchburg, is also expected.

YELLOW POPLAR LOGS TOP STATE MARKET

Yellow poplar brought the highest price paid for logs in Virginia last year according to preliminary figures, says J. Wilbur O'Byrne, forester of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division. The highest price was $22 per thousand board feet with an average for all sales of $16.31.

Top price on shortleaf pine, next in line, was quoted at $20.16, the lowest price $6 and an average of $16.40 per thousand board feet. Cypress was reported purchased at an average of $17.00 per thousand board feet.

The figures are from a preliminary compilation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service for the year 1940.

Although higher value timber comes from well managed woodlands the Forest Service reports that less than a third of the farm woodlands of the country are being managed to produce perpetual crops —the majority of woods yielding only a quarter of what they would with improved operation.

FARMERS' RECEIPT OF CHECKS HASTENED BY PROMPTNESS

Continuing its policy of simplifying the program in every feasible way, the AAA points out that farmers who participated in the 1941 program need sign only one application in order to receive both conservation and parity payments for which they may be eligible. Formerly it was necessary to sign a separate application for each type of payment.

Performance checking of practices carried out on farms during the 1941 program year is well along toward completion, and soon after a farm is checked by a supervisor the application for that farm may be prepared in the county office for the signature of the operator, says S. K. Cassell, state executive assistant. The application is a record of conservation and soil-building practices carried out on the farm. It also shows whether the farm operator is eligible to receive parity payments.

Application for payment forms, No. ECR-520, have been sent to all county associations by the state officers and it is hoped that applications for all farms checked will soon be executed and submitted for payment, Mr. Cassell says. The earlier a farmer's application is submitted the sooner he will receive his payment.

Park Service Publishes Interesting New Leaflet on Historic Appomattox C. H.

A descriptive leaflet concerning the Appomattox Court House National Historical Monument has just been issued for free distribution.

The leaflet, written by the local staff and printed in Philadelphia through the auspices of the National Park Service Regional Headquarters, Region One, Richmond, is illustrated by a map of the historic village where Lee surrendered and by several pictures. Three of the illustrations are wartime views of the old tavern, the court house, and the McLean (or Surrender) House, shortly to be reconstructed. Another photo shows the village in recent years, before development work was begun.

The cover picture is indicative of the historical significance of the area. Lee and Grant, in this reproduction from the painting by the famous American artist, J. L. G. Ferris, are shown shaking hands in the McLean parlor. This scene will symbolizes the "burying of the hatchet" at Appomattox, the end of fratricidal strife and the beginning of a new and more powerful America.

The text of the leaflet is concerned with the significance of Appomattox, the events leading to the surrender, the surrender, and the history of the village itself. Administration, service to the public, and information on how to reach the Monument are also included.

A booklet on Appomattox has also been prepared by the local staff and will be issued soon to supplement the information in the leaflet. There will be a slight charge for the booklet.

Sky Sailor

Splitting clouds astride a motorless plane is the favorite hobby of 26-year-old John Robinson, national glider champion. Shown above, just after he had amassed 2,130 points at a glider meet in Elmira, N. Y., the soaring champ was complimented on his technique in handling a glider, by spectator Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, U. S. army air corps chief, who predicted that gliders will eventually play an important role in U. S. military affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stubbs, of Fredericksburg, accompanied them home and remained for the week-end. Miss June Johnston will go to Fredericksburg as the guest of Miss Mary Louise Stubbs.

Mrs. Bagby and her grandchildren, Alfra, Alice, Marshall and Garland Garrette spent Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Johnston.

Predict Food Shortages

County agent, R. B. Hudgins today pointed out to Appomattox county people the importance of conserving foods to balance the necessary food for farm families where by a large amount of malnutrition can be corrected.

Mr. Hudgins said he had been informed there will be a limited supply of canned vegetables, especially tomatoes, which have largely been prepared by the consumer. It is known that wholesale grocers say their jobbers have informed them that they cannot fill orders for canned tomatoes this year as they have been doing in the past. Generally speaking there is a limited supply of tomatoes and vegetables to be canned, from the best gardens in the country.

There is an enormous crop of peaches and these can be purchased immediately and canned and dried.

In view of national defense and the scarcity of canned vegetables it is important that every home in Appomattox county put forth a special effort to can and store for the winter everything that can be saved from the garden, he said.
